ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for deducing parameters of high frequency data signals, comprises generating high frequency data signals using predetermined data sequences; measuring average voltage of each of the data signals; and deducing the parameters from the measured average voltages.